

Yanxi Chen, yc3841

2/9 participation:

The pull/push of door example is a weird thing I think of every time when I have trouble opening a door. Especially for those without a label, people really need to try push/pull to see how to open it.

Also, I am confused a little about creating the name list which is not shown in class but on the graph of the slide. I personally used separate div for each name but I wonder if there will be better way to make list like that.